Sheldon asks Didsbury "Are we there yet?"

READY TO ROLL

Local kids had no problem keeping up with the incredibly fit Kennedy when they skated with him from the 4-way stop at Highway 2A to the Memorial Complex.

Didsburians pull more than $2800 out of their pockets to help answer that question

By Ceilidh McClurg

"You are a special hero in my heart," Didsbury Mayor Ray Lea told Sheldon Kennedy when he came through Didsbury to crowds of admiring fans.

"We are behind you 100%"

Kennedy rolled in Didsbury hearts when he rollerbladed from the stop signs at Highway 2A and along the streets to the Memorial Complex where a large crowd had gathered to encourage him.

Local Didsbury Ramblers of minor hockey skated along side him as a show of support for Kennedy's cross-Canada skate. However, it was also a chance for Kennedy to show that he supports the kids.

People snapped pictures along the route, and Kennedy obligingly turned and smiled for each shot.

The whole experience was very upbeat, but underneath the laughing and the cheers, was a very serious subject, a subject that has so deeply affected Kennedy that he committed to raising millions for this cause, and that cause is sexual abuse of children.

Kennedy spoke from the heart when he stood at the podium. He had not written a speech and often closed his eyes when he spoke as if reaching deep inside himself for what would get his message through.

Kennedy told about 350 people who came to the rally about what he experienced and how he hopes that one day the problem can be eradicated.

"Let's come to together as a society, as a country, as a community, and as a family to make Canada the safest place for children," he said.

It wasn't safe for him when he was young. Kennedy was a young hockey player whose talent was making him one of the great ones. And although all outside appearances looked like he was a successful young man with bright eyes and dreams and hope, there was something that was tormenting him inside and it was deep, dark and secretive.

He told the crowd that had gathered on Wednesday that although he looked fine on the ice, he felt like a zombie carrying the secret that his coach, his mentor, his road to the NHL had sexually abused him.

"From the time a child is abused to the time that they get help, they run from themselves, they run from the feelings inside them," Kennedy explained almost directly to the young people in the front of the room trying to make a connection for them.

He encouraged those who have experienced abuse to come forward and tell their story.

"There are no miracles that need to happen here, it is about communication," he said.

Kennedy rocked the country when he came out and decided to communicate to the hockey establishment, the public, and most importantly, the justice system what Graham James had done to him.

He says that it hurt him to see the man working with other young men knowing that he may also be torturing them with his abuse and manipulation.

That was his motivation.

But, sitting in his motorhome after the Didsbury rally Kennedy says he remembers the exact moment that he made the decision that it was time.

"It was the day my daughter was born. I thought that I could make a difference. I wanted to protect her and to protect other kids. There was just such an overwhelming feeling of love and trust," he says. It is that very daughter, two year old Ryan, that he thinks about everyday that he takes another stride in his journey.

Kennedy says he has missed his wife and his daughter immensely since he started out in May, but occasionally does get to meet up with them, like he did in Red Deer just the day before coming to Didsbury.

Kennedy and his team of 5, including a trainer from Sundre, are on the road every single day and usually start at about 7 a.m. and go until late night with rollerblading and attending functions like the one in Didsbury.

Local farmers suffer devastating loss in fire

The Shultz family and friends all pulled together to help bring a raging blaze under control at their farm about 10 miles east of Didsbury. The fury claimed a machinery shop, a camper, and all that was inside. The remnants disappeared as a huge black smoke column that rose above the trees on the property.

A group of people pulled together and rounded up water to fight the blaze, which the three fire departments that responded, Didsbury, Carstairs, and Olds, were trying to keep from spreading to the big red barn that stood only a few feet away.

Although the family declined to comment, the disbelief and shock could be seen in their face.

A neighbor said, "Things are just dry this summer. I had four fire extinguishers on my tractor all season."

The community feels sympathy for the family.

Fifty-one new teachers hired

...and other school board notes

Identity crisis

Chinook's Edge Regional Division #5 had an identity crisis and are now to be known as Chinook's Edge School Division #73. It was late in the school year last year that trustees started mentioning that they would like to see the name of the division have something to do with school. Corporate Secretary, Teresa Dersch explained that when the school boards in the province amalgamated, those that were winning were called school divisions, and those that did not, like the County of Mountain View and Red Deer, were called regional divisions. However, the board was told that they could apply to Alberta Education for a legal name change. This summer, the board received word back that the name change would be effective Sept. 1. Dersch said at the board meeting that the cost of the name change was not significant because they will use up most existing stationery with the former name on it, and the sign changes will be done over time. She added with a laugh that they will even be able to recycle some of the existing letters on the current sign.

Welcome new teachers

The board reported that 51 new teachers were hired this year, as well as five administrators.

Homebase leaves Didsbury

The Homebase central building that is currently located next to the Museum in Didsbury will soon be relocated to Bowden. The homebase program as well as the Academy On Line program will be based out of the new facility. The programs will also settle into their new role of offering courses, such as Physics 30, which is often not offered at the traditional schools in a rural area because of a lack of attendance numbers. Deputy superintendent, Jim Gibbons said it is important that all students across the region have equal learning opportunities, and hopes that the integration of traditional and non-traditional will accommodate those needs.

Talent search

Something that has traditionally been a problem with many school boards is that school administrators are beginning to retire, and there is a lack of trained individuals who are ready and willing to step in. Jim Gibbons reported that because this region has gone to site-based management it is even more important to get those kinds of people into Chinook's Edge. Therefore, the board is now offering a four part leadership program to those who wish to take that route with their teaching career. Elements of the program include a leadership seminar series, a mentoring program, and university credit equivalent for taking a number of leadership courses.

Facilities update

Lyall Thomson gave the board an update on the progress of numerous construction projects at schools throughout the district. The so called "integrated learning environment" at H.J. Cody school in Sylvan Lake is reportedly up and running, with teachers and students being trained how to use the open environment classroom space. The modernization at Innisfail High School is almost complete. The courtyard portion of the project is done, and the Home Ec. and Administration area projects should be done this fall.

Get ready to run

Nomination day is Sept. 21

By Ceilidh McClurg

Ever though about how you would do it differently if you served on town council, county council or school board? Well here is your chance to show how you would do it.

This month anyone interested in running for any of the three boards holding election in October, (school board, town council, or county council) can get their nomination package to have their name officially put on the ballot.

The returning officer for the town is Howard Fradley and information packages about serving and running are available at town office.

Town office has their nomination packages ready for the three spots that will be opening. Vance van Dam, Dorothy Moore-Anderson, and Willard Swalm have announced that they will not be running for re-election in the fall, therefore there will be at least three new faces on council in October.

However, there can be competition for any of the spots on council, and the voters will make the decision when they mark their ballots on October 19.

But voters will be making more than one decision on that day. The school board elections will be the same, and the local trustee Deb Cousins has announced her intention to run again. Anyone who wants to run against her must fill out their nominations forms by Sept. 21.

County residents will be voting on their school representative as well as their county councillor in the fall. So far, Coun. Jack Peck has decided not to run again, and Coun. Ben Penner has said that he will run if no one else runs, however if someone else wants to take his spot, he will willingly give it up. Ian Harvie, Dian Davies, Dave Derksen, Linda Burrell and Pat James have all said that they will run again.

Campaigning by the candidates for these spots will start as soon as nomination forms are completed, and run through until election day. The Didsbury Chamber of Commerce is planning to hold a candidates forum during that time for potential town councillors.

To run for any of these positions, you must be at least 18, a Canadian citizen, and have been a resident of that municipality for at least six months.

Free information sessions on serving on a board or council are being made available by Alberta Municipal Affairs. They will cover a number of topics including legal issues, campaigning, your time involved, responsibilities, roles, and expectations.

For more information on the seminars call the Government Studies Program at Alberta Municipal Affairs at 492-5052. Remaining seminar locations are in Camrose, Sherwood Park and Westlock.

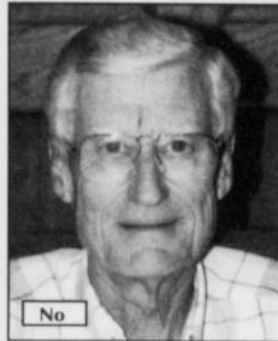

Area School board nominees

Top, Deb Cousins, the Didsbury trustee has previously announced that she will put her name forward to serve on the school board again. She has been a trustee for five years. Anne-Marie Brown, trustee for the Olds area, has not yet made a decision whether or not she will ask the people to allow her to serve again. Below, Susan Denischuk, trustee for the Carstairs area who stepped down as chair this year and will step away from the board entirely. She will not run again. Current board chair, Linda Yargeau says she will not put her name back on the ballot. She has served a total of 15 years as a trustee but says that she needs to commit more time to her family.

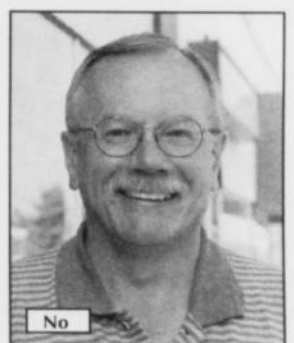

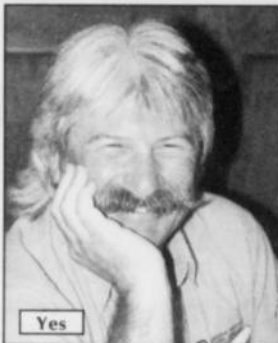

These current councillors have a made their choice

From left to right, Coun. Dorothy Moore-Anderson has served one term on council so far, and says she is ready to run again. Coun. Willard Swalm who has served two terms on council has made the decision to devote his time to other things and will not run again. Coun. Galye Veno feels that she has served her civic duty in her two terms and will not run again. Coun. Gary Dolha intends to run again after having served one term already, he says there are issues that he still feels he needs to address. Coun. Don Watt, who is the longest serving councillor, has served a total of 21 years on council, including 10 years as mayor. Coun. Vance van Dam says he has completed two terms and that will be all for him.

Other names that have previously been announced are Mayor Ray Lea, who has put his name back on the ballot for another term as Mayor, and Gord Bueckert, who announced last week that we would like to serve town residents in the form of a councillor.

A term on town council is three years long.

And the surveys says...

By Ceilidh McClurg

The numbers have been tallied, the people have spoken and they have said (drum roll please)... they are most concerned about health care.

MLA Richard Marz, who was the force behind conducting a survey of Olds/Didsbury/Three Hills constituents concerns, says he was not surprised at the outcome.

Marz asked constituents to respond to a survey that he printed in all the local newspapers on July 6, his summer student compiled the 68 responses that he received, and in addition did a phone survey calling about 100 people.

The results told him that the people in this area were first and foremost concerned about health care.

"Health care, I believe will always be the number one priority in Alberta," said Marz last week. He adds that the issue is not always that people believe more money should be spent, but that they always want to be sure that there is a good reliable system that is accessible to everyone.

The second highest priority, according to respondents is fiscal responsibility.

Marz said, "I am pleased to see fiscal responsibility rate quite high."

Third most important to locals is education. Marz says that although he is not surprised that the issue fell into the top three concerns, he notes that it has fallen from the number two concern, albeit very slightly, over the time he has been in office.

"To me, that means that we (the government) have made some movement in education in the past year," said Marz.

Also high on the priority list of locals are family values issues. It ranked fourth.

In fifth place was the justice system, and in sixth was maintaining the lowest taxes in Canada.

So now that he has this information what does he plan to do with it? Well, he has already shipped out a copy of the results to Premier Ralph Klein.

"I am going to keep it as a reference to support the direction that I take," he says. "It helps to back me up in the caucus when I debate issues important to my constituents."

Something that was not ranked in the top six at all on the survey was VLT's. Marz, who has said before that he has his own concerns about this issue, says that it doesn't surprise him how the priorities fell.

Marz also adds that he was a little disappointed that he did not have more of the surveys mailed back to him, because he believes that it would have given him an even better perspective!

"I would like to thank all the people who took the time to send their concerns through the mail and to those who took part on the telephone. Even though the survey is complete, I would still like to hear from anyone who has a concern which they feel is important. You can contact me at 556-3132, or write to me at Constituency Office: Box 3807, Olds, AB, T4H 1P5."

EDITORIAL / OPINIONS

Driving me crazy

Nicole
SMITH

Is it just me, or are there some really stupid drivers on the road? I didn't realize that the government has started selling driver's licenses at 7-11 stores across the country, but they must have, because that's the only way some of these people would be allowed on the road.

This summer I have spent a lot of time travelling on the roads between here and BC, and let me tell you, I've become really good at sign language.

I must admit that I am a bit of a speed demon, but I'm not in that much of a hurry that I can't obey the speed limit. It's just when the line of traffic is going 40 km/h under the posted limit that I get a little snarly.

No offence to you RV drivers out there, but you really should have your own lane. You have to realize that those motorhomes and trailers weigh a lot. You can't really go much over 80 km/h, yet you insist on driving in the fast lane. Or when there's only one lane, why not pull over to the side when you notice a line of over 100 cars behind you. Just because you're on a leisurely vacation, doesn't mean the rest of us are.

And, I must say, that I'm getting a little bitter at you out there who insist on cutting me off.

Last Sunday I was driving home from Fernie. As I was approaching Calgary, I started going down a hill. I was in the fast lane and was going about 130 km/h (sorry Sgt. Platz). All of a sudden this woman pulled into the fast lane and was going about 80 km/h. I just about rear-ended her. Even if I had been going the posted 110 km/h, I still would have nearly hit her. So, I laid on the horn, yelled at her out my window and made some nasty gestures. She deserved it.

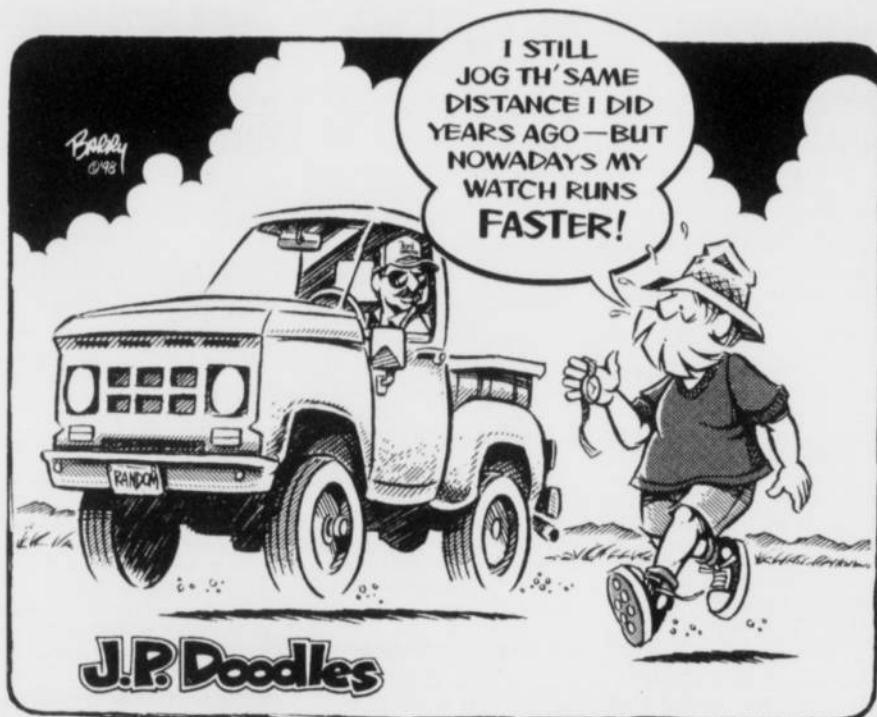

I know everyone out there says that women are terrible drivers, and after my experience this summer, I'm inclined to agree with them. Sorry ladies, I don't mean to betray my gender, but a lot of you have a hard time keeping your foot on the gas and signalling at the same time. My mother is probably the worst driver I have ever seen. She goes everywhere at least 10 km/h under the limit and honks at everybody.

There is such a thing as being over-cautious. They can fail you for that in your driver's exam. If you are that nervous while on the road, why not just stay off it? Those people you see who are clinging to their steering wheels and keeping their eyes focused right on the road are just an accident waiting to happen. If you're that tense and that focused on the lane ahead of you, you can't be watching what's going on around you. Stay off the road.

I'm not proclaiming myself the best driver ever. I've crashed my parent's truck twice and siezed the engine on one of my own cars. It's just that if everyone paid attention to what they were doing, there would probably be a lot less accidents out there.

So, with holidays coming to an end soon, keep your driving habits in mind. Pull over if you're slowing traffic down, signal before changing lanes, don't cut people off, give a friendly wave of thanks for those of us kind enough to let you into our lane of traffic. Drive safe and stay out of my way.

FROM THE MAILBAG

A community thank you

Dear Editor,

I thank you, the residents of Didsbury, for giving me the opportunity to serve as one of your councillors for the past six years. It has been for me an intensive, and extensive learning experience, consuming time and energy. I feel greatly rewarded for having served.

Thank you also for your words of encouragement, commendation and criticism.

The opportunity to work with my fellow council members has been a privilege. They each have made a significant contribution to my life. There have been times when hard decisions requiring our careful attention and judgement had to be made. I am pleased to say that I have done my best to use good judgement in my work as a councillor.

The challenge now is for some of you to come forward and run for office in the upcoming election. My prayers is that the Lord will prompt those of His choosing to run, be elected, and form a council which will become a strong, cohesive team to carefully and aggressively lead Didsbury into the next millennium.

Didsbury is a good place to live, work and play. It will be well worth the time and energy required of those who are elected to serve on the council. So, you who are willing, qualified and ready to give of yourself for the good of Didsbury, come forward and run for office.

Sincerely,
N. Willard Swalm

An appropriate punishment for a devastating crime

Dear Editor,

Like many people in Didsbury, I have family buried in the local cemetery. Until now, I have never found the need to publicly discuss the pain and suffering my family have endured during our times of loss.

However, this past week, much of the pain has returned as a result of the needless devastation caused by the unfeeling act of vandalism that occurred at the Didsbury Cemetery.

I have spent a lot of time wondering what kind of punishment I would render if I were the Judge in this case. At first my ideas were unprintable, but as I reflect I can feel nothing by sorrow for these two young people. Obviously these two juveniles are hurting. Unfortunately they have chosen to cause pain and suffering to those of us who have already endured much as we have had to deal with our own losses.

Since these people seem to enjoy spending time in the cemetery, my suggestion to the judge would include these two individuals working for at least the next year mowing the lawns, pulling weeds, cleaning up the dead flowers and leaves and shovelling snow at the cemetery. As they work there, they will no doubt meet up with many of us whose family members headstones they have destroyed. They can get to know us, see the suffering they caused, and understand our feelings of love and loss. Perhaps in some little way they will become better people than they are now.

Sincerely,
Marjorie Malinowski

Notes from Nigeria: A blackout rekindles friendship

Dan and Janet Snyder are Didsburians who are missionaries in Nigeria.

Sunday, August 30

Dear Friends,

Monday evening we had our first group of students over for pizza. We invite them for supper and a time to visit or play games. We had four eighth-grade boys this week and they were very well-behaved. They came at 5:30 and Dan played football with them until the pizzas were baked. This group was very talkative so we didn't bother playing any games. While the students are in our home we find out lots of interesting things about them that we would not normally know. They also get to know us as people instead of just as teacher/librarian. Our purpose in being here is to influence these students for Christ, and this has been a very good way to break down barriers and create opportunities to help students. Tomorrow night we should have five girls here. We're having the eighth-graders first because Dan is their class sponsor.

The sports league for grades 5-8 started this week. There are four teams of boys and four teams of girls involved in playing volleyball each Tuesday after school. Before the October break, which this year starts at the end of September, there will be a tournament involving all of these teams. These games on Tuesdays give students a chance to be involved in sports and on a team. Some of the students had never played before, so others had to be patient. It was nice to see their cooperation and willingness to help. We want our students to be positive members of whatever society they eventually join. With students from about 20 different countries, we have the opportunity of reaching around the world with our influence.

We had a really good staff retreat starting Friday evening out at Miango, where we were married just two and a half years ago. There wasn't a lot on the schedule so we were able to visit and get rested up. The speaker challenged us with the four steps of discipleship which involved commitment. He said that many younger people in North America don't like commitment, but that is what is required to be Christ's disciple.

It rained much of the time but the electricity was off only from 10-11 Sunday morning, which seemed a bit suspicious. We enjoyed times of fellowship and getting to know people that we hadn't visited with before. It seems that we ate about six times each day, but there were still snacks left over.

We enjoy chances to get away, but it's always nice to come home. Someone mentioned that it's easy to become paranoid after someone within our mission community was killed by armed robbers. When we see a car stopped on the road ahead of us, it's suspicious. Of course it's good to be careful, but we must continue with our lives and trust God to look after us.

Sincerely,
Dan and Janet Snyder

Town spirit evident

Dear Editor,

Three weeks ago the Child and Family Services Authority discovered that Sheldon Kennedy and his Skate Team would be making an overnight stop in Didsbury. It was important to us to provide an opportunity to celebrate Sheldon's courage in speaking out on a 'taboo' topic - sexual abuse - and to share his important message with the children and families in our community. The big question was whether we could pull something together on such short notice. Well, I should never have doubted that Didsbury could do it. Community members and organizations rallied around to provide a great welcome on Sept. 2 and a tremendous show of support for Sheldon and his cause.

First, my thanks to you Ceilidh and to the Review for your excellent front page coverage leading up to the event, which I'm sure played a large role in attracting the large attendance we had. Thanks also to our local schools and churches for their help in advertising the Rally.

I would also like to thank the individuals who helped plan the event, getting on the phone to spread the word and organize the details - Fran Murphy, Sandy Leiper, Wendy Bauer, Ev Robertson and Judy Newsome.

Appreciation is extended to Didsbury Minor Hockey - for their huge role in organizing donations and the skate in - and to the RCMP and Fire Department for ensuring the safety of the skaters. The skaters from Minor Hockey and the Olds Grizzlies that escorted Sheldon into town are to be applauded - that is one big hill they had to climb! And we can't forget our illustrious town CAO, Evan Parliament, made it up the hill as well!

The Didsbury Chamber of Commerce and local businesses also played a key role in making the Rally a success. Refreshments at the Rally were provided by the Chamber and by AG Foods. Steve's Place Restaurant provided a late night dinner for the Skate Team. Claude Baril proved to be a worthy MC for the event.

Local organizations - Didsbury Minor Hockey, Carstairs Minor Hockey, Olds Grizzlies, Didsbury Fire Department, Didsbury Elks, Didsbury Lions, Town of Didsbury and the Didsbury Agricultural Society - rallied to the cause with over $2,000 in donations.

Special thanks to the Town of Didsbury for donation of the facility and to Rhonda Hunter and staff and Didsbury Minor Hockey for helping to set up and clean-up. Signs for the event set up by Town staff were also appreciated.

Last, but certainly not least, thanks to all those children and families who came out to the Rally. Close to $700 was raised in donations at the door for the Sheldon Kennedy Foundation and your show of enthusiasm and support for Sheldon's message was, in the words of the Skate Team, awesome.

Thank you Didsbury! I'm reminded, once again, of why this is such a great community to live and work in.

Sincerely,
Pearl Craig, Facilitator for Child and Family Services

Sheldon is much more than a hockey hero

He has gone through many, many sets of rollerblade wheels which are changed every day. He covers about 100 kilometres per day and he has reached speeds close to the world record by going about 58 miles per hour down some hills.

He has travelled about 6700 kilometres so far and has about 1600 left to go before reaching his final point in Victoria.

All of this has put Kennedy in such good condition that he has received two phone calls to go back to the NHL, one from Edmonton and one from Toronto.

The head office of the Sheldon Kennedy Foundation is in Calgary and is manned by about 14 people, which in itself seems to kind of amaze Kennedy.

But what is even more amazing to him is that he just received word that they had to put in eight more phone lines to handle the volume of donation calls that are coming in.

Kennedy says that these are all just statistics and it is the people and the children that he is most concerned about. "I want to give them their voice back."

And, according to Gil Carriere, of the local health regions' child and family services authority board he has done just that.

"There is a choir, a symphony of voices of the children he has helped," said Carriere.

But Kennedy and his support team say they have seen more than just children come to terms with the abuse they have endured. Kennedy says the most heartwarming moment in his tour was in Ontario when a 70 year old man came to him after a rally with tears in his eyes and told him that he had been abused as a child and had never told anyone before.

This kind of response has not been uncommon. They reportedly hear more than 10 stories per day. This includes during his short time in Didsbury. Kennedy says that there were people Wednesday night who came up to him and told him their abuse story. In fact, a man in the crowd stood up during question period and told Kennedy that he knows someone who is abusing children, and he also knows the person that is being abused. He asked how loudly he should speak out, and Kennedy responded with a blunt but hopefully effective answer.

"I think you should scream," he said.

Another woman in the crowd thanked Kennedy for taking such a taboo topic and bringing it to where it should be, in the bright light of recognition and realization.

Kennedy said after the rally that sometimes it is stressful and hard to contain his emotions when he talks about the issue, and what happened to him, but says with each day it gets easier, and he is so determined to achieve his goal that he will do what it takes.

Whatever it takes to build Anaphe Ranch (Anaphe is the goddess and protector of children) on 640 acres near Radium Hot Springs he will do. He has already raised over $2.57 million to build the ranch for abused children.

And, that doesn't include the more than $2800 donated by Didsburians Wednesday. They sold kilometres for $1 each at the door which raised $698. Also, The Didsbury Elks and Didsbury Lions donated $500 each.

Vance van Dam of the Lions said he really appreciated that Kennedy could stop in Didsbury because it brings what might seem like only a "big city" problem home. "Child abuse can be a problem in small towns or anywhere."

The Didsbury Agricultural Society donated $250. Other large donations came from Carstairs Minor Hockey, Didsbury Minor Hockey and The Didsbury Volunteer Fire Department. On top of all of that the T-shirt, hat and necklaces flew off the table with eagerness, and those proceeds will also go to the campaign.

So, what does Kennedy think of Didsbury, well the coulee on rollerblades was an adventure but he says, "We had a great reception. It is a great town." His support team says it was a very big turn out for such a small town.

To sum up the evening and the whole cross country skate, it was Carriere who may have said it best.

Using the theme of Kennedy's tour he asked, "Are we there yet?" Then answered the question.

"Sheldon has shown us the way, and we will get there."

The kids in the crowd hung on Kennedy's every word as he spoke sometimes directly to them asking them to speak out against abuse, and to tell someone if they knew it was happening.

Thank You Didsbury

In September of 1997 we made significant changes to our advertising format. Specifically, we stopped delivering flyers to mail boxes and we committed to advertising weekly in the Didsbury Review.

All indications are that you like it. We appreciate your support and will continue.

News from the Dragon's Den

Greetings from the Dragon's Den.

Well, we are off to another great year! To begin with, we would like to welcome all the new students and staff to Didsbury High School. We encourage you to get to know these new faces.

The DHS athletic program is starting up again immediately. The golf and cross-country running teams have already started practice. New team members are encouraged to attend. Volleyball tryouts begin on Sept. 9 and 10. Both the Senior and Junior teams will be hosting tournaments. The JV tournament will be on Oct. 24; the Sr Invitational is on Oct. 31. Please be sure to come out and support your teams. There is also a Cross-country Meet scheduled for the week of Sept. 14-18; the specific date has not yet been announced.

Mr. Wegner, the new band teacher, has distributed Entertainment books to the band students. You are encouraged to help with this fundraiser by purchasing a book at the cost of $40. Either buy from a band student or contact Mr. Wegner at the school at 335-3356. Please help to support our band program.

To honour the 50th anniversary of the United Nations' Universal Declaration of Human Rights, there is a Poster Essay Contest with cash prizes from $500 to $300, attendance at the International Human Rights Conference Dinner in Edmonton on Nov. 27 and the Grand Prize Essay winner with a chaperone will visit the United Nations in New York. There are three categories: Grades K-6 Poster contest; Grades 7-9 Poster or Essay contest; Grades 10-12 Essay contest. Further information can be provided by Ms. Turner at the High School or phone 1-800-232-7208. Deadline is Oct. 15, 1998, so no time to waste and definitely worth a try.

Student Council, Grad Committee, and the Yearbook Committee are in the process of being formed and should be up and running very soon. Battle of the Grades is scheduled to happen on Sept. 18.

We wish everyone a very successful and positive year. Have a good week.

Back to school tips for parents

For some students it will be a return to old friends and new teachers, for others it will be the beginning of a new and exciting world of independence, new friends and new adventures. Stay Alert ... Stay Safe, Canada's leading streetproofing program, hope that for all, the start of the school year will be a safe and happy experience.

Being able to talk to your child is key to your relationship. It is wise to start this good habit early so that in later years it remains a comfortable and important part of your routine.

- Always ask them about their day.
- Learn about new friends and teachers.

- Listen for any signs of anxiety that could signal potential problems.

The playground is often the first experience children have with the realities of the outside world. For the most part, that experience is positive, but as children develop their independence and learn to play with others, they also begin to develop a sense of the many different ways people respond to situations.

- If they are being threatened by a bully at recess time, suggest they play close to the teacher on yard duty.

- Inviting a bully to join a game that their friends are playing is a good idea

- If the bully's harmful behaviour continues, encourage them to tell a teacher, principal or another adult they trust.

Many parents are not comfortable allowing their children to walk to school by themselves until they are older. Here are some suggestions to make the trip to school a safe one:

- Know your children's routes to school, to friends' homes and to play areas. Walk with them until you are acquainted with their routine.

- Encourage them to walk with a buddy, or hire an older student to accompany your kids to school and back.

- Check out the neighbourhood with your children and warn them of potential hazards. Point out Block Parent homes and other safe places.

- Tell them to always refuse to go anywhere with people they don't know. Teach them to step well back if someone they don't know stops to ask directions, so they can get away fast.

Windows of worship

John Orman is proud of the latest creation that has added to the atmosphere of St. Cyprian's Anglican Church. Two new stained glass windows in the sanctuary flanking the chancel of the church were installed only a couple of weeks ago.

Orman says that he is pleased with the finished product and believes that it adds to the feeling of the congregation when they look at the symbols adorned on them.

Each window has three panels to make up one whole. Each panel is decorated with different symbols representing different aspects of church life.

All of the windows were created by a stained glass artist in Cremona and were partially part of the celebration of the church's 90th anniversary.

Orman is so happy with the finished product that he is hoping to have two more completed over the next little while, including one with Christ watching over the church which he hopes will be done before Christmas.

There will be a 90th anniversary celebration and window dedication on Sept. 13 at 10:30 a.m. at St. Cyprians. The guest speaker will be retired Arch Bishop Fred Crabb. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Cremona Lions summer report: A new project

By Charlie Bird and Ken Naidoo

Water Valley Rodeo:

This event was held as usual during the first weekend in June. As one of our main fund-raisers, there was a tremendous turnout of Lions members to ensure its success.

Saturday morning saw the arrival of many Lions at the Rodeo Grounds, preparing to cater to the expected hundreds at the event. Our Lions members and other assistants (wives and family members) were kept busy throughout the day, serving hamburgers and refreshments. Other Lions and their assistants were busy manning the games booths and serving coffee and ice cream.

Sunday's catering started with the 'Breakfast Show.' This consisted of ham and egg on a bun. At around midday, the Lions reverted to their regular hamburgers. They were kept busy well into the afternoon, until closing time.

Recent Cremona Lions

Donations:

Lions Eye Bank, $800; Stars Ambulance, $800; Lions Youth Camp, $400; Lion Foundation (Leader Dog), $400; Olds Food Bank, $400; Cochrane Food Bank, $400.

Schuetzles initiate a new fund-raising project:

A few months ago, Lion Palmer came to the Cremona Lions with a proposal from Ann and himself. Would the Cremona Lions do some fencing at his farm, and so raise much needed revenue for the Lions? After some discussion, the Lions agreed. The three-day task was completed in July and as a result, our Lions are richer for their efforts. Many Lions were present to assist and their efforts were greatly appreciated. One stand out among many was Lion Vair Reid, who apparently eschewed the use of mechanical tools, and resorted to manual labour, attaining the same results and much more quickly. Way to go, Vair.

Break-in at the hall:

The Cremona Lions were the victims of a break-in in June. The closets at their upstairs meeting room were broken into and a quantity of liquor was stolen. We trust that the police will soon apprehend the perpetrators of this dastardly deed. In the meantime, we are seriously considering installing an alarm system to prevent the recurrence of such incidents.

Installation of new officers:

The officers for the 1998/99 year were installed at the June 22 supper meeting. District Governor Pat Webber was on hand for the induction. DG Webber also inducted three new members. They were Paul Loreque (sponsor: Bill Kidd), Ron Raybould (Jack Petersen) and Jay Owsley (Merv Walroth).

Dog Pound Rodeo:

This rodeo was held on Wed. July 15. Being a one-day affair, unlike the two-day affair at Water Valley, the Lions had some fine organizing so that the club would not undergo undue strain. The weather was perfect, the crowds considerable, and the rewards, both financial and service-club-wise, were excellent. Once again our coffers have been replenished, so that we may continue our work in assisting the community.

Bingo:

The final bingo for this year was held on May 27. The grand prize of $1,531 was won by Darcy Hindes. Congratulations. To the non-winners - better luck in the future, but we appreciate your involvement.

The Bingo Committee for next year is: Chairman, Jim Barbaro; Committee members, Lionel Bird, Dan Fear, Ron McKinnon.

Donations from bingo proceeds went to: Cochrane Activettes (Nov. 24, 1997), $1,000; Lions Eye Bank, $1,000; Cremona School (Bleachers), $500; FACE, $500; Case in need (Water Valley) name withheld, $1,000.

Take care of your eyes.
You'd be lost without them.

The loss of sight can happen to anyone without warning. That's why early detection through a yearly visit to an Optometrist is important. A Doctor of Optometry will perform a painless, but thorough eye health examination that can help detect underlying eye disease. The visit is affordable and is often covered by insurance. Visit an Optometrist every year even if you think your vision hasn't changed. You don't need a referral, simply look under Optometrist in the Yellow Pages. After all, you should never take your eyes for granted.

Wartime reunion could be record breaker

By Erna McCafferty

If you are approached this coming weekend and asked about the former location of Sinclair's Blacksmith Shop, Jenkins Groceteria or Klejko's Meat Market you will probably be looking into the eyes of a former 1930s or 1940s Didsbury High School student. Your friend will be on a pilgrimage to renew friendships with other former students and to reacquaint himself with his old haunts in Didsbury.

The first reunion of this alumni was held in 1961, and probably because of the influence of dedicated teachers or the occurrence of WWII, the bond has remained among the students and reunions were held in 1972, 1980, 1989, 1994, 1996 and the present, Sept. 11-13, 1998. The Guinness Book of Records has been contacted to ascertain if a record for school reunions has been established by this groups of high school students. One of the students who will be present this weekend attended DHS in 1920.

Registration will begin on Friday afternoon at the 5-0 Club. Arranging and viewing of pictures and mementoes, sing-songs and visiting will also take place. On Saturday the Scout Hall will be open from 10 a.m. to noon. The Museum will be open from 1-5 p.m. Banquet sittings at the 5-0 Club are at 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. Door prizes donated by Earl Cummins, Joyce Mullen and Joan Stevens will be drawn at this time.

Times of local church services will be listed in the hall for Sunday and a brunch will be served from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. A possible 200 souls are expected to attend this alumni reunion so if you are asked to help locate the former Klejko's Meat Market please try to be helpful.

PLANNING FOR DHS REUNION

The committee works to plan the reunion. (Not all are pictured.)

TO ALL OUR VOLUNTEERS AND SPONSORS:

On behalf of the Didsbury Agricultural Society, we would like to thank everyone for their participation in our Annual Fair and Rodeo.

It is through the help of sponsors and/or volunteers such as yourself, that we can continue to expand and incorporate more activities into our annual event. New additions to the fair this year were the introduction of an "Old Time Tractor Pull", Bike Rodeo and Rides for Kids. Our regular events, included: F.C.A. Rodeo, Cattle & Draft Horse Show, Bench Fair, Penning, Cutting Horse Competition, Dance & Beer Gardens, Farmer's Market, Talent Showcase, Cowboy Church Service and Pancake Breakfasts.

Only through donations of volunteer time from service groups, generous support from our sponsors and a cooperative community effort from numerous volunteers, could we hope to put on such an event.

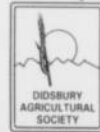

Your donation of time, finances and/or services goes beyond support of the Rodeo and fair, it enables the Didsbury Ag. Society to promote and sponsor numerous other community activities such as:

- Donation of facilities for meetings and ceremonies to numerous youth groups & 4-H Clubs, Canada Day Celebrations Committee, Cadets, etc.
- $500 Scholarship towards Agricultural Courses
- Farmer's Market May-September
- Finance the placement and removal of dirt in the arena for horse shows, 4-H riding, and rodeo events.
- Donation of funds for construction of the Mountain View Livestock Complex
- Supply facilities for the 4-H Outlaws Rodeo Achievement Day

Your donation has far reaching effects on our community. Again, we thank you and we hope we can count on your continued support.

Yours truly,

DIDSBURY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY

4-H members venture Off the Beaten Path at PDP '98

In the last of three programs this summer, 60 4-H members took part in the Alberta 4-H provincial program People Developing People (PDP), Aug. 16-21. PDP is an exciting personal development program for 13 to 15 year olds, held at the 4-H Centre in Westeros, AB. Because of exceptional interest in the program this year, a third week of programming was added to accommodate over 200 members throughout the summer. Local 4-H members Erin Mullinger, Cayley Cunningham, Carmen Ball, Vanessa Osmond, and Katie Hall took part in the event.

Also, Quinton Smith and Jodi Verbonac of Carstairs took part in the week's activities and challenges.

"We are excited that new programming was added to PDP this year," said Marguerite Stark, provincial 4-H programs specialist with Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development.

"Members participated in Shell Canada Environmental Day and Lammle's Western Wear Personal Development Day. These two days addressed specific issues that are relevant to the delegates' lives."

Shell Canada Limited and Lammle's Western Wear are patrons of PDP, Alberta Pool is also a strong supporter of the program.

This year's theme, Off the Beaten Path, encourages members to venture into unfamiliar territory and discover new things about themselves and the world around them. In sessions and group discussions, delegates were encouraged to be themselves and discover how interacting with others can encourage personal growth. Some of the activities and challenges at PDP included staged hearings on a current environmental issues, sessions on Alberta 4-H, Canada, self-awareness, peer pressure, communication, and many fun activities such as a talent show, dance, banquet, camp-out and outdoor games.

"PDP is an excellent opportunity for 4-H'ers to network with other members from around the province," said Stark. "Small group discussions and large group activities help members grow in new skills and knowledge while building valuable relationship."

The excited 4-H members who attended the program this week agree that PDP is an exciting and valuable experience they will remember long into the future. Plans are already underway for an exciting and challenging program in 1999.

Carstairs delegates were Quinton Smith, James Taylor of Shell Canada Ltd., and Jodi Verbonac.

Didsbury area delegates to PDP were Erin Mullinger, Cayley Cunningham, Carmen Ball, Vanessa Osmond, and Katie Hall. They all posed with James Taylor of Shell Canada.

RELIGION

Way of Life: It is still all barley isn't it?

Like the itch from barley dust, I feel the need to scratch at an issue that is bothering me.

There are some that would have us believe that in order for the churches of our community to be "Christian" there should be no differences between them. All we really need to believe is the love of God in sending Jesus Christ as Lord and Saviour, period.

These proponents for unity then break into two separate camps; one calling for a black-and-white approach towards diversity (sometimes referred to as "fundamental"), the other calling for a soft-sell emphasis on inclusion (often called "liberal"). One ignores differences while the other emphasizes them. It's like saying that when the barley is harvested it doesn't really matter whether it is two-row or six-row, it is all still barley.

But what is being omitted in this emphasis on the core of faith is a consideration of what defines the boundaries of faith. Oh, I know it's not politically correct for me to speak in public about the possibility of someone being excluded, but I still wonder. Are we better off knowing that the love of God is the one thing in the world that binds us together and everything else is negotiable, or that the existence of the love of God also establishes discernable limits?

Personally, I am thankful that there are denominations and churches in our community that have carefully and prayerfully interpreted the significance of the love of God. As a result, some call us to respond to this love in worship. Others invite us to experience salvation. Some pray that the Holy Spirit will empower us for faithful living. Some recognize the need to work for justice and peace.

As a participant in one of these churches, I find these boundaries extremely helpful in understanding what God would have me to do today. And together with other churches and other Christians, I can see and understand that God is working in many and various ways to carry this message of love to the boundaries of God's creation.

It sure does feel good to scratch. But I wonder if I have solved the problem?

Bob Clark has ideas about FOIP

Bob Clark, Information and Privacy Commissioner who lives in Carstairs, released his submission to the Select Special Committee regarding the three-year review of the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (the "Act") on Sept. 3.

In April 1998, the Select Special Committee released a discussion guide which requested public comment as to how the Act could be improved. The Commissioner responded to this discussion guide with a number of comments and recommendations.

In his submission, the Commissioner emphasized that generally, the "access and privacy process" is working well. He stated that, in his opinion, the Act has had a significant impact on Albertans by ensuring openness and accountability, while at the same time safeguarding individual privacy in the public sector. While the Commissioner agreed some amendments to the Act are necessary, he emphasized that legislators should not amend the Act to cover every possible contingency or problem but rather continue to allow the Commissioner the flexibility to address new situations by applying the principles of "fair information practices."

The Commissioner made 16 recommendations. Some adressed broader issues such as the scope of the Act, while others addressed more technical amendments such as time-limits and fee payment provisions.

One recommendation was that the Select Special Committee review the Act to determine whether the Act should be amended to cover self-governing professional and occupational organizations as public bodies. The Commissioner stated that the recognized importance of certain professions and occupations leads him to conclude that regulation is necessary to ensure they are accountable to the public in the areas of access and privacy protection.

Other recommendations included:

- defining the municipal and regional police services as distinct bodies under section 1 (1);
- authorizing the Information and Privacy Commissioner to delegate any of his duties, powers and functions under section 59;
- clarifying the time-limits to request a review by the Information and Privacy Commissioner under section 63 (2);
- clarifying the continuing request fee payment provisions under regulation 13 (4) to provide for a simplified formula to calculate fees.

Morning, noon or night, exercise is an energizer

Energy! When we have it, we zip through life with zest, enjoying ourselves and the things we're doing. When we lack energy, everything's a chore.

"A high level of energy is especially important when you're working toward a health goal like losing weight," said Marlene Pixley, a representative of TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly). "And it's a curious fact that to get more energy, we need to expend more energy - in exercise, that is."

But what's the best time of day for exercise? There are no right or wrong answers. Consider these aspects of working out at different times of day, and choose the one that best fits your energy profile.

Morning exercise helps ensure that you get your workout done before other obligations crowd your schedule, gets you off to an energetic start, and is most comfortable in warm weather and in climates where temperatures climb to uncomfortable levels later in the day.

Midday exercise can perk you up, prevent post-lunch let-down, in cool weather, lets you take advantage of daylight and warmest conditions, and can be a good time to exercise with co-workers or neighbours.

Evening exercise let you unwind after a hectic day, is handy when your gym or health club is on the route home from work or school, and often is the best time to get the whole family together for activity.

Each week in their chapter meetings, TOPS members encourage each other to follow their individual fitness programs, as well as to eat sensibly. For information about TOPS and the chapters nearest you, call Marlene Pixley at (403) 346-0100 or toll free at 1-800-932-8677.

A small boy was spending the day at the beach with his family. In the course of his playing he was attempting to move a large rock. He struggled with it, trying to lift, push, roll and shove the rock, but to no avail.

The lad's father came and asked him what he was trying to do. "Oh, I want to move this rock," answered his son.

The father then asked, "Have you done everything you can to try and move it?"

"Yes," replied the youngster, "I have done everything I can think of."

"No," said his father, "you haven't. You haven't asked me to help you."

We too, amid our times of struggle, trials or testing in various situations and circumstances that come into our lives, try to 'lift or carry' them on our own. But just as the little boy, we too have a 'Father' to whom we can go and ask for His help.

In Business

Specialties Unlimited is really unlimited

By Ceilidh McClurg

There is a niche in the market and Cam Steward has found it and dug out his own little spot there.

That niche is custom made products such as embroidery, mugs, pens, flags, keychains, actually just about anything you can think of can be personalized for a business or a group.

"I can do anything you can imagine with your name on it," says Steward from his new facility on 19 Ave. in Didsbury next to Burns School of Music.

Steward actually got into this business three years ago. He owns a trucking company called CS Express for which he wanted to have some company memorabilia made. When he went to most companies, they wanted large bulk orders, but for a small business who only needed a couple of things, the economy of scale didn't work.

Steward started making some inquiries and found that a specialties company was needed in the area. Even Calgary companies are shipping their stuff to far off places.

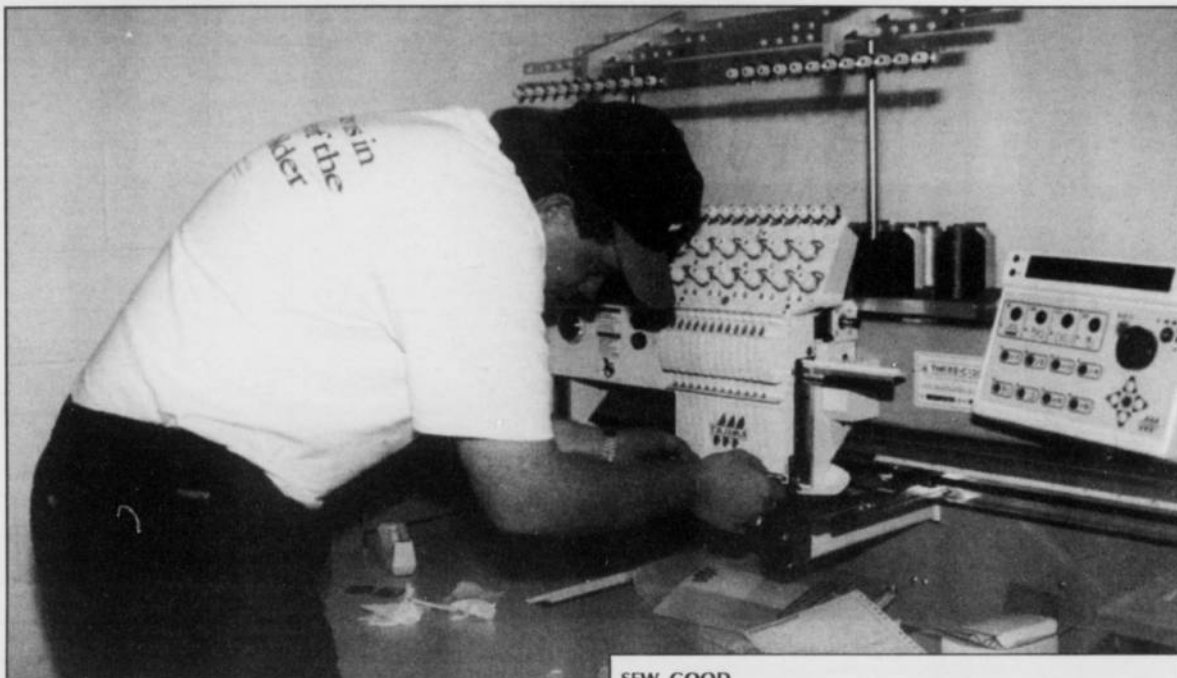

"It is a market that is really taking off," he says. And, he plans to ride that wave all the way to top.

Steward started out working the company from his own home, but when he decided to expand he needed his own space, a bigger space that could accommodate his new industrial embroidery machine. He found that space a couple of months ago and is now in business.

And business is good.

"If it is any indication I just got my new machine last week and I already have seven orders," he says.

Steward has the capacity to do many things, including what he was looking for all that time ago, which is specialty items for small companies in small amounts.

Cam Steward works on his new industrial strength embroidery machine.

"That is my market, the smaller quantities."

But, that doesn't mean he can't handle the big stuff.

He hopes to get accounts with some of the bigger companies.

He has 181 different suppliers that can send out towels for monogramming, jackets, team uniforms, barbecue aprons, glasses, whatever, that Steward can put his designs on.

In fact, a customer can either pick out an emblem from a book of more than 500 designs, or they can bring in their own design and it can be put on a golf ball, or a sport drink chiller, or anything else.

Steward is busy these days selling his products and his ideas, but in the meantime Carol Clarke is doing most of the embroidery and his wife helps out too, when she is not looking after their four children, Josh, Candace, Jesse, and Shauntay. The family has lived in Didsbury for about 8 years.

Specialties are his specialty.

However, he will also have a retail portion of the store where people could come in and pick out a golf shirt, and within a short time Steward and his crew could have it embroidered. Or, at Christmas time he could specially embroider stockings for the whole family.

He really can do anything for anyone, anywhere.

Specialties Unlimited will be open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturdays by appointment.

Canada's beef exports: Good news - bad news

The Canada Beef Export Federation (CBEF) has just compiled sales figures for the first half of 1998 and the results are mixed.

"The economic turmoil in Asia has finally caught up with our exports," said Federation President Ted Haney.

Overall, exports are down 16% compared to the first half of 1997.

Despite this, Canada's largest off-shore customer continues to increase purchases. Japanese exports are up 9%. Haney explains that there are a number of economic factors at work in Japan. The yen has strengthened slightly against the Canadian dollar, meaning the Canadian product is more cost effective.

"We also notice the Japanese consumer continues to become even more conservative. They are willing to walk away from the domestic crossbred beef meat case and continue to walk to the imported meat case where they will buy product that will sell quality for quality, cut for cut, at about two-thirds of the price. High end food services have been injured significantly in Japan. Not only are individuals not dining out as often, the corporate entertainment budgets have taken a big hit."

Haney says it's also noted that all beef exporters to Japan have increased sales to the low end or fast food sector. This has grown dramatically as more Japanese are turning to five and six dollar lunches.

South Korea, says Haney, is in a position of economic collapse, and as a result, Canada's beef exports are down 84% this year. He anticipates the "bottom" won't be reached until 1999. Exports to Taiwan for the first half of the year are down 19% but he adds: "I'm confident that by the end of this year, Canadian sales will at least recover to the record 1997 levels."

Hong Kong and China have increased their Canadian beef purchases by more than 7% so far this year.

"Our bright spot has been Mexico," said Haney. Exports to that country are up 24%.

THIS IS NOT SLEEPY INDUSTRY
Despite what Shauntay, centre, might think, specialty items are good business. Cam, his wife Nan, two kids Josh and Shauntay, and Carol Clarke all take part in some way.

Crop usage of water

By Greg Urichuk, Crop Specialist for Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development

Moisture, or lack of it, has been the hot topic of conversation for much of the growing season. When drought strikes, there are a lot of questions as to how long the crop will last and what crop roots are doing. Most producers have a good concept of surface moisture, most kick the dirt with their boot or run a light implement through the soil. Subsoil moisture, on the other hand, is a bit tougher to grasp a concept for. Soil probes or augers or even rods with metal welded on can give a good idea of the depth of moisture in the soil, but are really of no value in determining how long a crop is going to last in extreme heat and no rain conditions.

There are three phases to crop water usage:

1. Germination - To get a crop out of the ground, the soil must be moist at the depth the seed is placed. Surface moisture is very evaporative and can be gone with a few hot, windy days. When it's gone, there are two options, either seed deep or wait for rain. With the heavy gumbo soils, soil moisture can be held for long periods of time as long as the soil does not get stirred up by tillage. When heavy soils are dry, small showers will not wet the soil enough to get germination to occur. This causes uneven germination since in a year like this one, the seed sits in the dry soil for a long time before it germinates.

2. Early Growth - After emergence, the first few leaves transpire little water and considerable crop development can take place with no rain as long as subsoil moisture is in place and as long as the weather does not turn too hot and windy. When moisture conditions are good during late fall, fertilizer application is a benefit, even if the spring (May, June), is hot and dry. Subsoil mixture should be adequate enough to carry the crop through, again providing spring is not hot and dry.

3. The Grand Period of Growth - During this phase, tillering to seed set, rains are necessary in generous amounts and well-spaced. Soil moisture can carry for short periods but rain is needed to maintain the crop. Under normal conditions, spring seeding in early May will allow roots to grow through one foot of moisture and into the second foot of the soil profile usually by mid-June. At that time, ideal crop conditions need almost one inch of moisture a week until mid-July. There is usually no such thing as too much moisture. During this phase, roots will extract moisture from as much as four feet into the soil profile and at the same time, using up any rain that falls.

Without subsoil moisture, bumper crops which could have been will wither away to form dried up, low bushel weight grains which will be hard to get rid of. Only timely rains can help, lets hope for a lot of those over the future farming years.

BALER BE GONE
Hot and dry weather has contributed to many small fires on working farms like this one where the baler was in flames east of Didsbury.

CWB Director elections info

The independent professional services firm of KPMG announced on Sept. 2 the details surrounding the nomination of candidates for the first ever CWB Director Elections. The Minister responsible for the CWB, the Honourable Ralph Goodale, called for the vote following recent amendments to the Canadian Wheat Board Act. A new Board structure will see 10 of the 15-member Board of Directors directly elected by producers. This new Board will replace the currently appointed CWB Commissioners.

"The nomination period for candidates is now open and will remain open until Oct. 1, 1998," said Craig Fossay, a member in KPMG's Winnipeg office. "For detailed information about election regulations and voting districts we encourage all potential nominees to request a candidate information package by visiting our website at <www.cwbelection.com> or by calling toll-free 1-800-334-0009."

To be a candidate for Director, one must be: a Canadian citizen, 18 years of age or older, and be named in a CWB permit book as an actual producer, or a shareholder in a corporation, a member of a co-operative or a partner in a partnership that is named as an actual producer. A person may be a candidate in an electoral district in which they conduct business or in an electoral district in that borders that electoral district.

"We will be running a series of print and radio advertisements throughout the Election Period to remind candidates and voters about critical dates and eligibility requirements," said Fossay.

Some important deadlines for the election include:

Sept. 2 - Nomination of candidates begin.

Sept. 18 - Election period begins and initial voters' list established and published.

Oct. 1 - Close of nominations for candidates.

Oct. 12 - Voters' packages mailed.

Oct. 23 - Election Coordinator's deadline for additions to the voters' list.

Nov. 20 - Post-marked deadline for completed ballots to be returned to the Election Coordinator. End of election period.

Early December - Tabulation of the ballots and announcement of election results.

An advisory panel of deans and associate deans of agriculture at the Universities of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta unanimously recommended that KPMG serve as Election Coordinator. Canadian-owned and managed, KPMG coordinated election processes for Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada's Prairie Barley Vote in 1997.

Lose a chair; Gain a student at Olds College

Olds College has lost the chairperson of the Board of Governors, but gained a student. The College, however, also gained a new chair when Alberta Advanced Education and Career Development recently appointed Jim Smith to fill the position. The appointment was necessary to replace outgoing chair, Kathy Skocdopole, who will be a full-time student in Office Administration at Olds College this September.

Kathy is one of an increasing number of mature students returning to school to further their education. She is particularly looking forward to learning new skills in the College's state-of-the-art computer labs and applying them to her family-owned business.

Her successor, Jim Smith, has been a member of the College's Board of Governors for three years and has served as Vice-Chair for the last year. He has also served on the executive of the Olds College Foundation. He says, "Olds College has a proud history and an exciting future meeting the needs of our students and industry partners. We have an excellent team; a strong executive and dedicated faculty and staff and I am pleased to provide some continuity and contribute, if I can, to the College's ongoing success."

Jim, with over 20 years experience in agricultural and environmental industries, is the founder of Mancroft Financial Corporation and president of Mancroft-EBA Consultants

Ltd. His companies provide professional consulting services to agriculture, industry and environment in the areas of land use, evaluation and project management, environmental assessment, and reclamation and remediation of contaminated sites. He also runs his own mixed farming operation near Olds with his wife, Hazel, and two sons.

Deer Select Sale

The First Annual Deer Extravaganza Select Sale was held on Aug. 22 at the Capri Convention Centre in Red Deer. The auctioneer was Jack Daines of Innisfail.

The second top selling White-tail Doe sold to Crooked Gate White-tails, Andre DeVisser of Sundre for $13,700. The producer was Alberta Buck Ranch, Jody Kulak for Alberta Beach.

The third top selling White-tail Doe went to C Bar K Ranches, Ken Brink of Olds for $13,200. The producer was Alberta Buck Ranch, Jody Kulak of Alberta Beach.

The top White-tail female fawn of the sale was purchased by Northridge Enterprises, Darrell Parker of Paradise Hill, SK. The producer was JC Bull & Buck Ranch, Jim Mercier of Gibbons and sold for $5,500.

The second top selling White-tail female fawn sold to Deer Meadows Game Farm, Brian Cunningham of Alberta Beach. The producer was also JC Bull & Buck Ranch of Gibbons and sold for $5,100.

The third top selling White-tail female fawn went to Spruce Valley Ranch, Alan Anderson of Grande Centre for $4,700. The producer was Sidetracked Game Ranch, Lance Schnieder of Drayton Valley.

The top selling White-tail buck sold to Blackstone Properties, Roger Stewart of Rocky Mountain House for $5,800. The producer was Royal Crown Ranch, Blackfolds.

The second top selling White-tail buck went to Boyd English of Grande Prairie for $4,800. The producer was Beaver River Deer Farm, Doug Surine of Ardmore.

The third top selling White-tail buck was also from Beaver River Deer Farm and sold to Guido DeVisser of Sundre in the amount of $4,600.

Plans for next year's Deer Extravaganza are in the works. For more information on this year's Extravaganza or on deer farming, call Kathy at (403) 675-5999 or Lisa at (403) 574-2103 or Pat at (403) 227-2349.

Delivery program for fusarium-affected grain

The CWB will once again offer a delivery program to assist farmers with fusarium-affected wheat and barley.

The delivery program allows farmers to deliver certain classes and grades of wheat and barley with fusarium damage above the tolerance levels established by the Canadian Grain Commission, while maintaining export standards and customer requirements.

For the 1998-99 crop year, Nos. 2 and 3 Canada Western Red Spring wheat will be accepted at country elevators with a maximum of 5% fusarium content. No. 2 Canada Prairie Spring Red wheat, No. 2 Canada Prairie Spring White wheat, No. 2 Canada Western Extra Strong wheat and Nos. 3, 4 and 5 Canada Western Amber Durum wheat will be accepted with a maximum 10% fusarium content. Feed barley will be accepted with a maximum 5% fusarium content. This is the same program that was offered in 1997-98.

Under the program, farmers will receive the initial payment for these grades minus a discount for fusarium content. For all other grades, the CGC's primary grade tolerances for wheat and barley affected by fusarium will apply.

Fusarium is a fungal disease, which most often infects wheat, but barley, oats, rye, corn, canary seed and forage grasses are also susceptible. In wheat, it is characterized by chalky kernels that appear thin and shrunken.

Fusarium primarily affects crops in southern Manitoba and parts of eastern Saskatchewan, representing about 10 to 15% of total area across Western Canada. Fusarium infection began early this spring, but dry weather through July has limited the spread of the disease.

The CWB is one of the world's largest wheat and barley exporters, with annual sales revenues approaching $6 billion. It is Canada's fifth largest exporter and largest net earner of foreign currency. Marketing Prairie-grown wheat and barley to over 70 countries around the world, the CWB returns all sales revenues, less the costs of marketing, to farmers in Western Canada.

The Western Canadian Classic, featuring the Alberta Saddlebred Futurities, closed the Red Deer season for the ASHA of Alberta. The final show is the Didsbury Fall Classic.

The Futurity Show started with the foal of the calendar year in-hand. These foals are nominated for this class before they are born, and the winner receives the Joe Fulkerth Memorial Trophy. This year there were nine foals in the class, and the winner came from Cream Coulee Stables of Three Hills, Jim Bishop owner.

The yearling top prize went to Cloverleaf Stables of Didsbury, with Attache's Heaven Sent, and the Norm Tucker Memorial Trophy was presented to Archie Hurst owner. Lorna Doiron of Didsbury took first and the McWade family trophy for two year olds with Catriona's Morning Surprise, shown by Archie Hurst.

The Futurity two year old in harness went to Cindarella's Timeless Tale from the Mane Attraction Stables of Olds, shown by Adrian Neufeld and owned by Adrian and Suzie Neufeld. They also received the TJ Husk Trophy.

The Futurity Grand Champion went to Attache's Heaven Sent, owned and shown by Archie Hurst,

DRIVING ON
Kent Mullen and Wild Bill Sadler taking their victory pass in the Country Pleasure Driving Breeders Sweepstakes.

and Reserve went to Dandy Derby, owned and shown by Jim Bishop of Three Hills.

Futurity three year old under saddle and winner of the Goetzinger Trophy was Spring Fever owned by Kelly Brown.

The showmanship class for 13 years and under was taken by Andrea Ward, who also took first in Open Saddle Seat Equitation. Andrea and her horse Heavenly Country Fire are trained at Cloverleaf Stables. Raylene McWade of Sylvan Lake, also based at Cloverleaf, was Adult Open Equitation winner.

The Saddlebred three gaited English Show Pleasure driving went to Leslie Hurst, with Heavenly Country Fire, and they repeated their performance to take the Alberta Breeders Show Pleasure Stake.

Ken Mullen, driving Wild Bill Sadler, also found the winner's circle with first in Country Pleasure Driving, and also took home the top money in the Country Pleasure Driving Stake, Breeder's Sweepstakes.

High point horse for the weekend for Cloverleaf was Heavenly Country Fire, owned by Larry Ward of Okotoks and shown by Andrea Ward, driven by Leslie Hurst.

Southside Saddlebreds of Didsbury won the five gaited class with Hunting Port, and rider Louise Large.

Other Didsbury competitors were Michelle and Conway

Campbell, who competed in the Hunter and Western Pleasure classes.

The show also featured Morgans and Andalusians and part bred Andalusians.

Robert Turney of Marro Stables of Blackfalds, showing the Andalusian Stallion Primrose IV, treated the spectators to an exhibition of dressage set to Spanish music. This is the last show of the Red Deer season. The Saddlebred Convention will be in Red Deer in October.

PBC fall play coming soon

Tickets are now on sale for Prairie Bible College's presentation of the family oriented musical Opal, Sept. 30, Oct. 3 and Oct. 7-9 at the College's theatre in Three Hills. Evening performances will be at 7:30 p.m. and matinees at 2 p.m.

The award-winning Opal, written by Robert Nassif Lindsey, is the story of a seven-year-old girl who was orphaned in the early 1900s after her parents die in a shipwreck. She is subsequently raised by an embittered, work-worn woman in an Oregon lumbercamp. Much of the story revolves around the variety of people and experiences in the lumbercamp and the amazing influence this young girl has on all of them.

Rehearsals have already begun for the cast of 12, most of whom have significant theatrical experience at PBC. The lead role of Opal is played by Elizabeth Hagen from Whidbey Island, Washington, a student in Prairie's Certificate of Theatre Arts program.

The story of Opal is based on the actual childhood diary of Opal

Whiteley (aka Françoise D'Orleans) written at age seven. In her book, Opal Whiteley: The Unsolved Mystery, Elizabeth Bradburne Lawrence writes, "Opal lived in the home of a lumberman and his wife in the woods of Oregon at the turn of the century, where she wrote her childhood diary on scraps of paper. It was published in 1920, both in America and England. Then it was forgotten until introduced by a BBC broadcast 40 years later. The importance of Opal and her diary is not the mystery of who she was, fascinating as this is, but in the insight her diary gives into the inner life of childhood."

Tickets for Opal are $7 for adults and $5 for students and seniors, with a special family rate of only $20. (Matinee performances will be half of the regular price). Tickets can be purchased at the Prairie Book Room in Three Hills, or by calling 1-800-456-0961.

They are also available at the Esso Red Rooster in Three Hills.

On Nov. 20 and 21, Prairie will host a One-Act Play Festival, and next March, PBC plans to present the well-known JB Priestly play, And Inspector Calls. PBC will also be the site of the annual Criss Cross/Christians in Theatre Arts Conference (Prairie Region), Feb. 5-7, 1999. Participants from across Alberta, as well as other parts of the prairies, will converge on PBC for a weekend of workshops, performances and networking. Seattle-based professional actor/director/writer, Jeff Berryman is the featured guest Artist for the event.

PBC is a post-secondary college offering a range of Fine Arts programs, including a two-year Certificate in Theatre Arts and the Barnabas Players drama troupe. Music students at PBC can study performance (vocal, piano, instrumental), computer music technology, cross-cultural music, and contemporary music ministry.

OVERTIME

MAGEE

So we're down to the last 25 games of the year and does anybody really care about the World Series? I didn't think so.

What most of us really care about is the homerun chase. At the Monday deadline, St. Louis Cardinal slugger Mark McGuire was sitting with 55 homeruns, off of Roger Maris's Magical 61.

"Sweet swinging" Sammy Sosa has 54 homers so far also pulling him on pace to break the second.

McGuire's 55th was a monstrous 501 foot shot in the seventh inning off of Atlanta reliever Dennis Martinez. That came some six hours after Sosa had tied McGuire by blasting a 430 foot homerun in the Mile High Stadium in Colorado.

McGuire has 26 games remaining to break the record, while Sosa has just 25. As for Ken Griffey Jr, well ... yeah maybe next year.

Fresh bread, garden vegetables and homemade goodies. Next time you're on an Alberta highway, look for the Farmer's Market symbol and treat your taste buds.

It's hard to pass a sign that says "Head-Smashed-In Buffalo Jump" and not pull over to check it out. Don't miss this UNESCO World Heritage site—one of five in Alberta.

Experience the age-old charm of a horse-drawn carriage ride at the Remington-Alberta Carriage Centre. This extensive collection dates back to 1840 and includes carriages used by Queen Elizabeth II.

Slap on your swim suits, toss in your towels. The whole family can find a great Alberta beach experience somewhere close to home.

Did you know that songbirds migrate to Alberta from as far away as Argentina? Welcome them at the Lesser Slave Lake Bird Observatory this summer.

Live a day in the life of a corset at the Western Heritage Centre. Learn how ranch and farm life has progressed, through entertaining hands-on exhibits and interactive displays.

Dig deep into Alberta's past. Visit Dinosaur Provincial Park, another of Alberta's UNESCO World Heritage sites, and take in the mystery of 70 million years of geological history.

Full head over wheels in love with the Reynolds-Alberta Museum. Take a spin in a vintage car or biplane and tour the transportation gallery—part of Alberta's distinct heritage.

This weekend:
yardwork or a very
cool Alberta getaway?
Sounds like a no-brainer.

Few people look back on life and say, "I wish I'd mowed my lawn more". So call us for wonderful Alberta activities that can make your weekends more adventurous. And grab a break instead of a rake.
Take an Alberta break. Call 1-800-661-8888.

Travel Alberta

Want more of life's drama? Discover the Rosebud Theatre where your family can enjoy dinner theatre in period costume.

Experience the traditions of the Ukrainian culture from 1892 to 1930 at the Ukrainian Cultural Heritage Village—a collection of sights, sounds and tastes you won't want to miss!

Peaceful picnic spots abound in every corner of Alberta. And you won't have to drive for hours to find one.

There's more to this museum than moose. Take a lantern-lit night tour through the historical village at the Grande Prairie Museum where costumed interpreters perform scenes from the city's past.

The Etzikom Museum will blow you away! Come out and see the largest collection of windmills in Canada and learn about wind power history.

About the CFC Bulletin

The Canadian Firearms Centre (CFC) Bulletin explains specific areas of the Firearms Act and how it affects you. The CFC is the group of federal and provincial/territorial partners implementing the Firearms Act which will be phased in starting Oct. 1. Applying for a registration certificate:

Starting Oct. 1, you, as an adult (18 years and over), will have until Jan. 1, 2003 to apply for a Registration Certificate for each non-restricted firearm (most hunting rifles and shotguns) you own on Oct. 1. You can do this by simply mailing in your application. Your restricted and prohibited firearms should be registered already. If you now own restricted or prohibited firearms, you simply must confirm that the registration information is complete and up-to-date. (Call 1-800-731-4000 for this form). Afterwards, a new certificate will be issued to you free of charge. A Registration Certificate will be issued for each firearm. To apply for a Registration Certificate you will need either a valid Firearms Acquisition Certificate (FAC) or one of the new firearms licenses. Your new firearms license must cover the class of firearm being registered (non-restricted, restricted, prohibited). Your FAC will be valid for all classes of firearms which you register (until it expires). You can apply for a firearms license and a Registration Certificate at the same time. It will cost a flat fee of $10, in the first year following implementation, to register all the non-restricted firearms you own on Oct. 1. This fee will rise on a sliding scale up to $18 on July 1, 2001. After Oct. 1 it will cost $25 to register any newly acquired firearm in your name. You will only have to register your firearm once (unless you modify the firearm so it changes class).

Identifying firearms:

When you register your firearm, you will need to provide information about your firearm on the Registration Application Form. This information includes the firearm make, model, serial number (if there is one), calibre/gauge, barrel length, type, action, number of shots, and manufacturer (if different from make). If the calibre and barrel length of a firearm can be changed, individuals can register more than one calibre and barrel length per firearm. The Registrar, who heads the Canadian Firearms Registry, will compare this information to a Firearms Reference Table (FRT) currently in development. If the firearm information on the application doesn't match the same firearm information in the FRT, or if the firearm is not in the FRT, the Registrar's office will contact you for further information. Once a firearm has been properly identified and classified as non-restricted, restricted or prohibited, the Registrar will issue a Registration Certificate for your firearm.

CFC Bulletins 22 and 25 are on Registration. Bulletin 23 will be on the Firearms Identification Number.

09 MEMORIAM

IN LOVING MEMORY of Sandy
 Baswick, who passed away September 10, 1997.

Deep in my heart a memory is kept,
 Of the one I loved so dearly and never will forget.

But looking back with memories upon the path we trod,

I bless the years I shared with you,
 And leave the rest to God.

You have not really left me,
 Nor have you travelled far,

Just stepped inside God's lovely house,
 And left the door ajar.

Always in my heart, his loving wife
 June, son John (Gloria), Brian (Wendy),
 Tim and Tara (Laverne).

09 MEMORIAM

THE PATH YOU CHOOSE

In a world of uncertainty one thing should stand out in a person's mind.
 That one thing should be that things don't come to those who do nothing to make them happen.

No one will believe in you unless you first believe in yourself

To take the responsibility to do what's right in your mind and deal with it at your own discretion.

You should choose the path of life you wish. No one should influence that decision because you suffer the consequences alone.

The path you take may have many other directions to travel,
 Choose them carefully some are dead ends.

There's a lesson to be taught on every path and when you learn

From them and use them to your advantage, only then will you find
 Peace and tranquility in your soul.

Jamie Everett

In loving memory of our beautiful Jamie.
 Mom, Shawn and family. Sept. 13/97.
